A Tribute To Canada

THE MANNER IN WHICH PEOPLE of many races have come to this country and lived together in peace and harmony as Canadian citizens, stands as an example of what could be accomplished on a much larger scale among the nations of the world. Canadian culture has been added to an amalgamation of all the best which has been brought here by people from other lands. In Canada, racial prejudices and languages and class barriers have been submerged, while much of the finest in music, art and other forms of expression in many different races, has combined to benefit the cultural life of the country. Among all ranks of Canadians, statesmen, professional men, citizens and those engaged in various forms of the arts, are outstanding citizens whose racial origins go back to all parts of the Old World. Regardless of this, they have together, as citizens of Canada, for the welfare and advancement of the nation.

Is An Example To The World

For many years, Canada has been cited as an example of what could be achieved in bringing permanent peace to the people of the world. The latest tribute of this kind came from the Right Honorable Winston Churchill, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, who recently made an extensive tour of Canada. During this tour, Lord Addison addressed audiences in a number of centres and on each of these occasions he advocated what leading statesmen of all nations are now urging: namely that the interests of the United Nations be held above those of individual states and groups of people, in the cause of an enduring world peace.

The War Taught Need For Unity

Lord Addison emphasized the fact that the war has taught the people of the world the value of unity as a basis for lasting peace. In this connection, he said: "All the great projects for the world, such as the League of Nations, are as good as nothing unless they are possible on one condition, and that is that we have for a basis of every advance society the people. I believe every man in every country wants to be able to pursue his life free from the dread of war, and I would like to say that I think the people of Canada - in which large numbers of different races, peoples, languages, religions, and customs, and their own languages are living together in a great unity - are a lesson the world should learn." Canadians should be proud, indeed, to stand as an example for peaceful cooperation among people at the crucial period in world affairs.

Seed Potatoes Exports

Candian Certified Seed Shipped To

Many Countries

Canadian certified seed potatoes are exported to several countries, as indicated by the annual report of the Agricultural Supplies Board for the 12 months ended March 31, 1948. Shipments totaled 2,500,210 bushels to the United Kingdom during the twelve months under review, and went to the following countries: United States, 2,531,048 bushels; Cuba, 31,151; Argentina, 108,641; Portugal, 52,400; South Africa, 31,381; Venezuela, 86,636; Mexico, 20,000; Panama, 100; Martinique, 20,000; Dominican Republic, 4,271; Mexico, 1,293 bushels and 748. There were other shipments made after March 31, 1948, and it is estimated that total shipments from the 1948 crop of certified potatoes were about 2,500,000 bushels. Production of certified and seed potatoes in Canada in 1948 amounted to 6,510,000 bushels. Of the 2,500,000 bushels of certified seed potatoes, more than 90 per cent, was grown in the Maritime Provinces—New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

New Use For Peat

Scientists Find It Substitute For

Chalkable Oil In Germany

A United Kingdom wartime discovery has created a new industry. An investigation was undertaken by the British Department of Scientific and Industrial Research to find a substitute for motor wax, which was indispensable only from Germany. The properties of peat, such as its hardness and high melting point, make it suitable for use in the manufacture of many products and carbon paper. It was found that peat is relatively rich in this and other forms of hard wax—more than 15 per cent of the dry substance. It was found that peat could be recovered as a waste from after it had been extracted. Peat can still be used as fuel, either in powdered form to provide power on the site or made into briquettes for use.
